Dear Dan

I just wanted to write and thank you for your contribution to last week's PGCE Ofsted inspection. The inspectors' daily feedback sessions each afternoon that I was invited to attend enabled me to gain an insight into the lessons observed, meetings attended and views of all the mentors and students involved. It was a real pleasure to hear about their daily experiences and to hear what your thoughts were about the course. I was delighted to hear the incredibly positive comments about the strength of the partnership.

In the final week of term I will be updating all students about the initial findings of the inspection but I think the main thing that affects you at this point is that the accuracy of our judgements was confirmed for every student observed – even when the lesson itself didn't go as well as might have been hoped.

I know that you will have put in extra time and effort as a result of being asked to contribute to this inspection. This is already a busy time of the year so thank you from all the Primary PGCE team.

Best wishes

Sue Davis
Head of Primary PGCE
